The President's Opinions.
[Correspondence of the N. Y. Post 1

Washington, Feb, 9, 1862. The President stated yesterday to sever-al of his friends, that the recent victory over the robels at Fort Henry was of the utment importance, and it was intended to follow it up immediately with a blow upon the railway connection fifteen miles from the eaptured fort. He further stated that hot work is expected in that region at once. The question was distinctly asked of Mr. a, if the Government were in possession of any advices from England or France which threatened interference with the existing war. He replied that the Goverament had nothing which was not in the fereign journals; that there is no special danger of interference at the present time. though It was evident that the interference party was at the last accounts, growing ally stronger in both England and France, at expects to win over the rebels in the at two or three months, would put to The fact was distinctly announced, at the Government was fully determined to press caward at once upon the enemy, nd thus answer the just expectations of

Mysterious News from Bowling Green. We know but Musn't Tell.'

This Morning's Report.

FROM WASHINGTON. Washington, Feb. 14. Tribune correspondent of the The Committee on the Conduct of the War, in examining to-day the case of Gen.
Stone, discovered new facts, which divided the responsibility of the blunder at Ball's change position.

So far we have repuled the enemy at every point along the line. Our loss is small. The conduction of the case of Gen.

Committee on the Judiciary examined Gen. Biekles, whose frequent visits to the inparcerated Wikoff, and the Journeys from his cell to the residence of ex-Lient. Watt, at the other end of the Avenue, had excited suspicion. Sickles claimed to be Wikoff's counsel, and to have acted throughout in A letter from Gibraltar, dated January that capacity. The Committee put some home questions to him. He replied sharply, and for a few minutes a war of words raged.

While his examination was pending, the sergeant-at-Arms appeared with Wall.

He testified that he saw the message in the make a copy, but having a tenacious mem-

"We have crossed out to catch a glimpse of the privateer and the privateer and the privateer and the private and the made known their commission to the Conrederate authorities at Norfolk, by whom the matter was referred to Richmond. A reply came, refusing the Commissioners admission to the Confederate territory, but expressing resiliness to negotiate for the general exchange of prisoners.

Our Commissioners opened negotiations which resulted in period success. An equal exchange was agreed on, but the Confederates had 300 more prisoners than we have. With commendable magnanimity, they proposed to release those also, on condition that our Government would agree to release 300 of their men that may ext fall into our hands.

CONGRESSIONAL. Washington, Feb. 14.
